DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This action is in response to the Applicant's amendment filed June 23, 2006.

Claims 18-20, 33, 56, 66, 67, 69-71, 84, 107, 116, and 120-123 are pending and will be considered for examination.

Applicant's amendment to claim 18 is sufficient to overcome the rejection of this claim under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph. This rejection is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 18-19, 33, 56, 66, 67, 69, 84, 107, 116, 120, and 122 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Block (US Publication 2002/0010604 A1) in view of Walker et al. (US 5,794,207) ("Walker") and further in view of LaBrie et al. (US 2002/0047861 A1) ("LaBrie") and Lapstun et al. (US 6,728,000 B1) ("Lapstun").

Referring to claim 18: Block discloses a method of electronically purchasing tickets comprising:

- using a mobile personal trusted device of a purchaser which is in wireless communication with a server of a provider of the tickets to select a ticket to be purchased (paragraphs [0027], [0667], and claim 1);

Art Unit: 3625

- using the mobile personal trusted device to communicate with the server which verifies a purchase of a selected ticket and authenticity of the purchaser (paragraphs [0028], [0044], [0046], and claim 1: "...issuing said member either one of a written or oral confirmation of all travel plan arrangements made; and saving the confirmation in said system for at least the period of time said member will be traveling, for permitting by said member at any time during the travel period.");
- saving in a memory information regarding the purchase from which the purchased ticket is output (paragraphs [0668] and [0669]).

Block does not teach signing with the server a contract representing purchase of the ticket by the purchaser. However, Walker teaches a method and system for binding a buyer to an electronic contract based on the buyer's purchase offer (Abstract; col. 1, lines 10-12; col. 8, line 28 – col. 9, line 30; col. 16, line 12 – col. 17, line 7; col. 18, line 56 – col. 20, line 4). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate the teachings of Walker into the invention of Block. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do so in order to allow a seller to be able to collect funds immediately upon the acceptance of the buyer's terms, as taught by Walker (col. 7, lines 39-42). The cited prior art does not teach that the purchased ticket is output by an authorized device selected by the mobile personal trusted device. The Examiner notes that the Applicant's specification discloses that the limitation "selected by the mobile personal trusted device" means that the user of the personal trusted device selects a output device (see specification page 7, lines 3-7: "The user gives the reference number of the desired self-service printing device (that is selected to print out the ticket) and the ticket identification (or selects it from an offered list from the user interface) at point 408, which are user signed at point 410 by the PTD 28 1 before sending the printing request message to the TSP.”) LaBrie teaches a system and method that allows a user of a mobile personal trusted device (paragraph [0048]) to reserve (paragraphs [0070]-[0072]) and print out a ticket from a user selected printer at an authorized access point (paragraph [0075]). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate the teachings of LaBrie into the cited prior art. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do so in order to allow a user the option of obtaining the tickets, as taught by LaBrie (paragraph [0075]). The cited prior art does not teach that authorization of the output device is determined by the server of the provider. However, Lapstun teaches a system and method wherein the authorization of the output device is determined by the server of the provider (column 2, lines 48-51; column 15, lines 58-63; column 33, lines 22-40). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate the teachings of Lapstun into the cited prior art. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do so in order to have a secure transmission between the output device and the server, as taught by Lapstun (col. 33, lines 13-20).

Referring to claim 19: The cited prior art teaches or suggests all the limitations of claim 18 as noted above. Furthermore, Block teaches that the authorized device is an authorized printing device, and the purchaser communicates with the provider of the tickets to print the ticket with the authorized printing device (paragraphs [0667]-[0669]).

Art Unit: 3625

Referring to claim 20: The cited prior art teaches or suggests all the limitations of claim 19 as noted above. Furthermore, Block teaches that the authorized printing device is connected to the server by way of a network connection (Figure 1, items "2", "11", and "12").

Referring to claims 33, 56, 66, 67, 69, 84, 107, 116, 120, and 122: Claims 33, 56, 69, 84, 107, 116, 120, and 122 are rejected under the same rationale as set forth above in claim 18.

Referring to claim 70: Claim 70 is rejected under the same rationale as set forth above in claim 19.

Referring to claim 71: Claim 71 is rejected under the same rationale as set forth above in claim 20.

Claims 121 and 123 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Block (US Publication 2002/0010604 A1) in view of Walker et al. (US 5,794,207) ("Walker") and further in view of LaBrie et al. (US 2002/0047861 A1) ("LaBrie") and Lapstun et al. (US 6,728,000 B1) ("Lapstun") and further in view of Official Notice.

Referring to claim 121: The cited prior art teaches or suggest all of the limitations of claim 120 as noted above. The cited prior art does not teach that the printer, after printing the purchased ticket, acknowledges the printing of the ticket to the server of the provider of the tickets. However, Official Notice is taken that it is old and well known in the art to for a printer to acknowledge the printing of a document to a server. Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to incorporate this feature into the invention of the cited prior art. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do so in order to allow the server to free up the memory resources that had been reserved for the print job.

Referring to claim 123: Claim 123 is rejected under the same rationale as set forth above in claim 121.

Response to Arguments
